Acclaimed Sedona landscape photographer Derek von Briesen has generously donated this featured collection to KSB to use in a fundraiser for KSB. These images capture the American Southwest's most iconic and fragile landscapes, from Glen Canyon's hidden canyons to Death Valley's sculpted dunes, from the Mogollon Rim's vibrant forests to Monument Valley's towering buttes. Each photograph reflects stillness, grandeur and the enduring importance of conservation.

Derek von Briesen hails originally from Southern California where he worked in film, music and action sports for many years. He's lived in Sedona since 2003, and devotes his time to landscape photography, producing fine art gallery prints, teaching photography workshops throughout the Southwest and working as the Staff Photographer at Tlaquepaque Arts & Culture Village for the last decade. He is a long-time contributing photographer to Arizona Highways, and his award-winning photographs have also been published by National Geographic, Outdoor Photographer, USA Today, the Weather Channel, Sedona Magazine, Sedona Monthly, Kudos, the Red Rock News along with a host of other local and regional guidebooks, magazines and newspapers.

These limited-edition prints can be yours as our gift to you for donating to Keep Sedona Beautiful. All donations fund KSB's programs.
